

Sell signal

VN30 performance

The VN30 Index recorded its second consecutive corrective session, with mounting selling pressure driving the index down 0.82% to close at 2,010 points. Twenty-two out of thirty index constituents declined, led by VHM (-3.75%), VRE (-3.35%), BSR (-3.26%), GAS (-2.75%), GVR (-2.49%), PLX (-2.33%), and VCB (-2.16%). On the positive side, buying interest concentrated in SSI (+1.66%), SSB (+0.91%), and VNM (+0.85%).

VN30 Future chart: Sell signal

The market sent a bearish signal as the contract closed below the 20-period moving average for the fourth consecutive session. Additionally, the 10-period moving average trended toward a downward crossover of the 20-period moving average - a clear short-term sell signal.

A sharp decline in liquidity over two consecutive sessions suggested that the current downtrend may represent a technical correction within a longer-term uptrend rather than a full trend reversal.

In the upcoming session, the 2,050-2,100 point zone serves as strong short-term resistance, while the 1,950-point zone - which aligns with medium-to-long-term moving averages - acts as a key support level.

Technical strategy

The short-term downtrend received further confirmation following the end-of-week corrective session. As such, traders may consider re-entering short positions in the sessions ahead.
